DECISION

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

MICHAEL A. ROSAS, Administrative Law Judge. This case was one of eight related cases tried in San Juan, Puerto Rico on August 27, 2013.¹ The American Postal Workers Union, Local 1070, AFL-CIO (the Union) filed the charge and amended charge on March 19 and May 24, respectively.² A complaint issued on May 31. The complaint alleges that the United States Postal Service (the Postal Service or Respondent) violated Section 8(a)(5) and (1) of the National Labor Relations Act (the Act)³ by unreasonably delaying in providing the Union with relevant information pursuant to their collective-bargaining agreement. For a remedy, the Union seeks a broad cease and desist order and an affirmative bargaining order. The Postal Service denied the allegations in the complaint, but now concedes that it unreasonably delayed in providing information which the Union was entitled to under the collective-bargaining agreement. It objects, however, to a broad cease and desist order and bargaining order.

Settlement discussions continued until just before the hearing commenced. I was informed that the Postal Service would amend its answer to admit all of the amended complaint allegations and that the only stumbling block was the remedy. The General Counsel insisted on a cease and desist order to be posted at every Postal Service facility within the Caribbean District.

¹ By Order, dated August 20, 2013, the Regional Director advanced the hearing from August 21 to August 20 in order for this case to be heard together with 7 other consolidated information cases, led by Case 24-CA-090192. (GC Exh. 1(i).)

² All dates are in 2013 unless otherwise indicated.

³ 29 U.S.C. Secs. 151-169.

The Postal Service expressed a willingness to agree to a cease-and-desist order, but only one that was limited to the facility at issue in this case.

5 Ultimately, the parties could not agree and the Postal Service proposed a unilateral settlement agreement for my approval pursuant to Board Rule 101.9(d). Since I was already at the hearing site and all parties prepared to proceed, I reserved decision on the Postal Service's application and received brief testimony relevant to a remedy.⁴ Upon review of the record, it is evident that the charging party did not agree as to the entirety of the proposed settlement. Moreover, the proposal was submitted to me only after I arrived at the hearing location in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Having heard all of the relevant, albeit brief testimony, I decline to accept the proposed unilateral settlement pursuant to Independent Stave Co., 287 NLRB 740, 743 (1987).

15 On the entire record, including my observation of the demeanor of the witnesses, and after considering the briefs filed by the General Counsel and the Postal Service, I make the following

FINDINGS OF FACT

I. JURISDICTION

20 The Postal Service provides postal services for the United States and operates various facilities throughout the United States, including a facility at 50 Carr Street, Aguadilla, Puerto Rico. The Postal Service admits, and I find, that the National Labor Relations Board (the Board) has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to Section 1209 of the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970, 39 U.S.C. 1201 et seq., and that the Union is a labor organization within the meaning of Section 2(5) of the Act.
25

II. ALLEGED UNFAIR LABOR PRACTICES

A. The Parties

30 The Postal Service's Caribbean District encompasses two Caribbean neighbors, the United States Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the United States District of the Virgin Islands. The Caribbean District consists of approximately 132 facilities divided into four Zip Code Clusters. Facilities and zip codes within the Virgin Islands fall under 008, while Puerto Rico is divided into 3 clusters: 006 for zip codes in the west; 007 for zip codes in the east; and 009 for zip codes in the San Juan metropolitan area. Each cluster is managed by a Post Office Operations Manager (POOM). The Aguadilla facility is one of 52 facilities included within Zip Code Cluster 006 and is managed by POOM David Carvajal.⁵

The following Postal Service employees constitute a unit appropriate for the purposes of collective bargaining within the meaning of Section 9(b) of the Act (the Unit):

⁴ R. Exh. 1; Tr. 15-20.

⁵ Juan Delgado, the Caribbean District's Manager of Human Resources, provided credible and undisputed testimony regarding the district's organization structure. (Tr. 23.)

All employees in the bargaining unit for which it has been recognized and certified at the national level – maintenance, motor vehicle, postal clerks, mail equipment shop, and material distribution employees.

5 At all material times, the Union has been designated and has served as the Unit's collective bargaining representative, and recognized as much by the Postal Service. This recognition has been embodied in successive collective bargaining agreements, the most recent of which is effective, by its terms, from 2011 to 2015.

10 B. The Union's Information Requests

In furtherance of its obligations as the Unit employees' labor representative, the Union has, since October 18, 2012, requested, in writing that the Postal Service provide it with the following information: (1) John Hernandez's 1412 for March 23, 2012; (2) copy of the Unit's 15 1412 for March 23, 2012; (3) copy of Hernandez's PS Form 3368-P; (4) copy of Hernandez's PF Form 3977; (5) copy of Hernandez's count for February and March 2012; (6) copy of Hernandez's April 2012 count; and (7) copy of Hernandez's LOD for March 2012.

20 The information requested by the Union since October 18, 2012 was necessary for, and relevant to, the Union's performance of its duties as the exclusive collective-bargaining representative of the Unit. The Postal Service, however, unreasonably delayed in furnishing the Postal Service with the information requested until April 10.⁶

25 After unreasonably delaying in providing the aforementioned information to the Union, the Postal Service implemented measures in order to avoid a recurrence of similar unfair labor practices. Rather than leave it to individual facility managers to respond directly to information requests, Carvajal implemented procedures to ensure that his office received a copy of every request within Zip Code Cluster 006 and resolves or responds to them in a timely fashion.⁷

30 LEGAL ANALYSIS

The Postal Service admitted that it violated Section 8(a)(5) and (1) of the Act by unreasonably delaying until April 10 in furnishing the Union with information requested on October 18, 2012 relating to certain personnel records of Unit employee John Hernandez. 35 Moreover, the Postal Service does not object to issuance of a traditional cease-and-desist order. It does, however, object to the General Counsel's request for an Order directing the posting of such a notice at every Postal Service facility within the Caribbean District. The Postal Services argues that a broad cease-and-desist order is unnecessary and a traditional cease-and-desist order limited to the specific facility involved in this litigation is the appropriate remedy.

40

⁶ At the outset of the hearing, the Postal Service admitted the complaint allegations that it unreasonably delayed in furnishing the requested information, failed and refused to bargain collectively with the Union in violation of Section 8(a)(5) of the Act, and that such unfair labor practices affect commerce within the meaning of Section 2(6) and (7) of the Act. See Stipulation at GC Exh. 3, amending the Postal Service's answer to the amended complaint.

⁷ David Carvajal, the Post Office Operations Manager, provided credible testimony as to the measures taken after the violations occurred. (Tr. 42-45.)

Broad cease-and-desist orders are appropriate when an employer is shown to have a proclivity to violate the Act or has engaged in such egregious or widespread misconduct as to demonstrate a general disregard for the employee's fundamental statutory rights. Hickmott Foods, 242 NLRB 1357 (1979); Postal Service, 345 NLRB 409 (2005). The Board reviews the totality of the circumstances to ascertain whether the employer's specific unlawful conduct demonstrates an attitude of opposition to the purposes of the Act to protect the rights of employees generally. Postal Service, 345 NLRB at 410. Failure to respond to information requests, although unlawful and a persistent problem, does not necessarily amount to egregious or widespread misconduct, and a lack of regard for employees' fundamental statutory rights. See Albertsons, Inc., 351 NLRB 254, 260 (2007).

The Postal Service produced testimony by managers explaining their efforts to avoid similar recurrences in the future. The remedial steps undertaken by the Postal Service in this instance, however, were insufficient to undo the harm caused by its failure to timely provide relevant information necessary for the Union to effectively represent the interests of Unit employees. In Postal Service, 345 NLRB at 410, the Board considered the following factors in determining the scope of a cease-and-desist order: (1) the frequency of the failures to furnish information within a two year period at the same facility; (2) whether the violations occurred after issuance of a narrow cease-and-desist order (suggesting the inadequacy of the order to deter future violations); (3) whether the information requests related to grievance investigations (suggesting that repeated unlawful refusals to provide the information have the potential to hide other misconduct); (4) whether the Respondent presented a weak defense of its actions; (5) the extent of the history of information request violations at Respondent's locations nationwide within the past two decades; (6) whether the Board previously issued broad cease-and-desist orders against Respondent for similar repeated information request violations at facilities within the same district; and (7) whether the Board's issued a concurrent decision against Respondent for the same violation.

While there is a lengthy history of similar violations and Board orders at other Postal Service facilities around the country, the facility at issue in this case is not included in that record. Moreover, there is no indication that the information requested related to a grievance investigation. The General Counsel contends that the Board's recent decision in U.S. Postal Service, 359 NLRB No. 115 (2013), along with a recent settlement agreement, evidence a pattern of similar violations.⁸ Vague reference to a settlement agreement, however, is hardly evidence of a violation. Moreover, in its recent U.S. Postal Service decision, the Board did order the Postal Service to furnish the Union with requested information and post notices at its San Juan area facilities. The Board issued its order, however, only after a remand from the United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit on the contentious issue of confidentiality interests applicable to personnel records of Unit employees and job applicants.

Only when an employer has an extensive history of violations, or a history of noncompliance with cease-and-desist orders, should a broad cease-and-desist order be granted. Postal Service, 345 NLRB at 411. The violations established here consist of delays in furnishing the Union with requested information relating to the personnel records of a particular Unit employee. There is no evidence of a previous violation in connection with this facility, which is located in the western part of the Commonwealth. Because no proven pattern or practice of unlawful activity exists at this facility, facilities within Zip Code Cluster 006 or other facilities within the Caribbean District, a broad remedy requiring a District-wide notice positing is unwarranted. See Consolidated Edison, 323 NLRB 910, 911 (1997) (Board reversed judge's finding that the cease-and-desist order should be posted at all of the employer's facilities, not just the facility where the improper conduct occurred, as the unlawful activity affected only one employee at that facility).

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. By unreasonably delaying in providing the Union with information that was necessary and relevant to the performance of its duties as the exclusive collective-bargaining representative of Unit employees, the Postal Service has engaged in unfair labor practices in violation of Section 8(a)(5) and (1) of Act.

2. The aforementioned unfair labor practices affected commerce within the meaning of Section 2(6) and (7) of the Act.

REMEDY
