DAVID EDWARD JURY

ORDER

The Respondent's request for special permission to appeal from Administrative Law Judge John T. Giannopoulos's April 1, 2019 order is denied. The Respondent has failed to demonstrate that the judge abused his discretion in issuing the protective order sealing certain documents and preventing dissemination or disclosure of certain information to the public. The judge acted to protect inadvertently disclosed, sensitive information personal to the Charging Party. That information was irrelevant to the underlying proceedings, and the Respondent had not challenged the sensitive nature of the information or demonstrated a significant interest in disseminating it.¹

Dated, Washington, D.C., July 1, 2019.

¹ Because we deny the request for special permission to appeal on the merits, we do not pass on the General Counsel's motion to strike the request on timeliness grounds. Moreover, we have not considered the Respondent's May 22, 2019 and May 24, 2019 supplemental filings. The May 22 filing did not present argument or evidence that was unavailable to Respondent when it first filed its special appeal. The May 24 filing submitted evidence unavailable at the time the judge issued the protective order, but did so only to prove an undisputed fact.
