¹ In denying review, we agree with the Regional Director's conclusion that the conduct at issue in this case did not require setting aside the election under the test set out in Harborside Healthcare, Inc., 343 NLRB 906 (2004), regarding pro-union supervisory conduct. In so finding, we do not rely on the Regional Director's finding that the pro-union conduct at issue was relatively isolated and was not widely disseminated. We note that the Regional Director identified the Employer's filing of objections as occurring this year instead of last year, but that this inadvertent error does not affect the disposition of this case.
